The main focus of AmeriCorps members serving with Multicultural Communities in Action is to provide educational and literacy assistance to youth and teens in public schools, alternative schools, and after-school non-profit programs. Additionally, some members also recruit community volunteers to assist in the after-school non-profit programs and assist adults with employment skills training and counseling. We have 40 full time positions that are located in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Additional qualifications to participate in Multicultural Communities in Action:

- Several (but not all) of our positions require some college education.

Top reasons that members like serving in Multicultural Communities in Action:

- Diversity! We are diverse in terms of the individuals that make up our Corps, our service sites, and the youth and teens who receive assistance.
- Working and building relationships with youth and teens in a variety of settings in schools and afterschool programs.
- The strong support and encouragement from the MCA staff and site supervisors.
- A wide variety of service and training opportunities.
- Our focus on team building, leadership, and Civic Engagement.
- Our network of Twin Cities people, resources, and events.
